

CLAIM.

A combined greetings card and reply post card wherein the recipient of the combination card can separate the greetings card portion (1) and (2) from the reply post card portion (3) by one single separation down the line (4) (which is either a line of weakness or a printed dotted line which could be cut along with scissors) thus producing two independent and complete units of namely a greetings card with its front and back cover intact and a reply post card but no other excess parts, panels or waste material.